SEEK PEACE IN MEXICO REBELS START MOVEMENT.

DIAZ WILL GRANT TERMS FOR A PEACE COMMISSION.

TREMENDOUS INFLUENCE FOUND NECESSARY TO GET GOVERNMENT TO CONSIDER GRANTING CONCESSIONS.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 3—The revolutionists have sued for peace.

President Diaz, whose iron hand has never before been known to bend, will grant their terms and appoint a peace commission.

It is said that overtures were first made to the revolters by representatives of the government, who intimated the government would meet them half way, although it is known that tremendous influence was used on the government before it consented to offer concessions.

The revolutionists will demand first amnesty for all political offenders, including General Madero, the revolutionary leader.

CHILDREN SEE PICTURES AS GUESTS OF THE ELKS.

YOUNGSTERS AND TEACHERS HAVE GOOD TIME AT MOVING PICTURE SHOW THIS AFTERNOON.

As guests of the Daytona lodge of Elks a large number of the pupils and teachers of the public schools of Blake, Seabreeze, Daytona and Kingston enjoyed the performance given at the Crystal Theatre this afternoon.

The matinee performance was started at three o'clock and the house was filled with happy children embracing the opportunity to see some fine pictures.

The free performance for the children was hurried through to give the youngsters who desired plenty of time to get up to the opera house to see the matinee performance there which did not begin until 3:30 o'clock.

TITUSVILLE MEN FINED FOR HANDLING MULLET.

Sheriff Brown, of Titusville, acting in his dual capacity as fish and game warden, did a good business in that town when he apprehended a shipment of mullet out of that place and caused the arrest of two men, whose fines amounted to $100 each.

Mr. Brockett, of the Eureka Fish company, paid the first fine for having the fish packed in barrels ready to go forward by express shipment. He went before Justice Wilson and paid his fine of $100, then sent the barrels in question to the express office for shipment. Then R. W. Joyner, agent for the Southern Express company, was haled before Justice Wilson and also fined $100 for accepting the illegal shipment.

The closed season for mullett in this State is between Nov. 15 and Jan. 1.

TROUBLE THREATENS ON CANAL.

BOILERMAKERS ON STRIKE; STRIKEBREAKERS ORDERED.

WORKMEN INDIGNANT BECAUSE PRESIDENT TAFT DID NOT INVESTIGATE THEIR GRIEVANCES.

COLON, Panama, Dec. 3—Serious labor difficulties, which may completely tie up all construction work on the big Panama canal, is threatened here.

All boilermakers employed on the canal have struck and other workmen are threatening to follow their example.

The waterway authorities have sent to New Orleans for strikebreakers and this is expected to cause further trouble as the men are indignant at President Taft, who refused to consider their grievances when he was here recently. The president promised to "investigate later."

MEETING CHEROKEE CHAPTER AMARICAN WOMAN'S LEAGUE.

HELD INTERESTING SESSION FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT THE HOME OF PRESIDENT, MRS. C. H. ABBOTT — TIME OF MEETING CHANGED.

Cherokee Chapter, American Woman's League, met in adjourned session Friday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. C. H. Abbott. In the absence of the president and vice president, Miss Goodall was called to the chair.

The secretary read a communication from Mrs. Abbott, tendering her resignation. On motion Mrs. Abbott was requested to reconsider the matter. On motion the date of monthly meetings was changed from the first Thursday afternoon of each month to the first Wednesday afternoon. On motion the chair appointed Miss Cross and Mrs. Bernard, a committee, to draft resolutions of regret and sympathy on the death of Mrs. Caroline Gove, a beloved sister and charter member of Cherokee Chapter; and that these resolutions be published in the Gazette-News and Halifax Journal; that a copy be sent to the bereaved family and enrolled on the minutes of the meeting, was also embodied in the motion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS IMPROVING.

TEMPERATURE NO LOWER FRIDAY NIGHT.

THERMOMETER FRIDAY NIGHT REGISTERED THE SAME AS THURSDAY NIGHT—WENT TO 26 DEGREES.

The temperature last night according to Mayor E. W. Greene's thermometer went no lower than upon the previous night, 26 degrees, and many of the ordinary mercurial thermometers recorded from one to two degrees higher this morning, while the early part of the night was not so cold as that of Thursday night.

Discussion as to the effect of the cold upon the oranges is quite usual.

A representative of the Daily News called upon Hon. George H. Munroe and questioned him upon the subject this morning. Mr. Munroe said that no damage had resulted to the fruit in the Munroe & Stevens groves Thursday night and he felt satisfied that they had also come through last night without injury. Their groves, however, are particularly well situated for protection and it is barely possible that in some very exposed locations the fruit has been slightly touched by the cold.

The forecast issued today is encouraging, although there will probably be frost again tonight in this section. A gradually rising temperature with increased cloudiness and probably rain Sunday, which will be beneficial in its effects upon plants and vegetables which have suffered from the heavy frosts of the past few nights.

THE BEST BOOK

A man can have in his pocket, the Bible alone excepted, is a bank book. The plot is absorbing and the readers' interest increases at the rate of four per cent. Call at our bank today and get one. The saving system is suited to all kinds of business and will assist you in holding onto the dollars. You can be saving and not be a miser. Economy encourages all the better elements of manhood. It is easy to economize with your money in the bank where you do not see it. If it jingles in your pocket there is a temptation to spend it. We will harness it up and put it to work earning interest for you. It is possible you have never felt the absolute necessity of having a bank account. You might drift along and prosper without one, but it is much easier to forge to the front in a financial way if you have one of our neat little bank books in your pocket. Do you know of a single prosperous man who does not carry one? You are glad to follow the example of the wise and prudent men in other respects, why not in this? Call today, make a small deposit as a starter and you will step a little higher as you go home to your family with a bank book in your pocket. Try it just once.

SERIOUS POLITICAL RIOT TAKES PLACE IN LONDON.

NEW HOUSE IS OPENED; GOOD PLAY.

AUDIENCE WELL PLEASED WITH THE HOUSE OF LOVE.

MEMBERS OF THE PERUCHI-GYPZENE COMPANY PRESENT FIRST ATTRACTION IN NEW DAYTONA THEATER.

With the rendition of a pleasing play the new Daytona theater was auspiciously opened last night, the event being voted a success by the people, the managers of the opera house and the members of the company presenting the play.

Unfavorable weather conditions served to keep away many people who had planned to go, but the house was comfortably filled by a representative audience, attracted as much by a desire to see the interior of the remodelled building as to witness the play.

The playhouse as remodelled and rebuilt now offers a comfortable interior arrangement with plenty of room to accommodate a large audience. The new stage gives ample room for settings of every kind and the new scenery installed is of the latest style and of sufficient quantity and proportion to leave nothing to be desired by traveling companies carrying any number of people.

Managers Snead and Morris made a wise selection in choosing the Peruchi-Gypzene company to open the new house and the play given last night, "The House of Love," was declared by many to have been the best thing in that line ever given in Daytona. The company is a well balanced one, composed of finished actors, and there is little room for criticism of any part or character. It was plainly noticeable that some of the members of the cast are new to the company, but the strength given to the play by the older members overcame this defect to a large extent. C. D. Peruchi as the judge, Miss Gypzene as Bessie and Miss Jackson as Ann, were especially strong.

MUST STAND FOR TRIAL ON CHARGE OF BRIBERY.

MILLIONAIRE PRESIDENT OF PRESSED STEEL CAR COMPANY MUST ANSWER TO INDICTMENT IN PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 3—Frank Hoffgot, the millionaire president of the Pressed Steel Car company, must stand trial on the charge of bribery and conspiracy.

A motion to quash the indictment was denied in court here today.

MOODY SERIOUSLY ILL; FRIENDS ARE ALARMED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3—Associate Justice Moody of the Supreme Court is seriously ill with a severe attack of hiccough, which can not be controlled. His friends have become greatly alarmed.

KILLED AT CROSSING; HIT BY WORK TRAIN.

NEWBERN, Ga., Dec. 3—Pratt Barker, a white farmer, and three negroes were killed at a railroad crossing near here today by being struck by a work train. They tried to cross the track in a wagon and were struck by the train as it came around a curve, which prevented the engineer from seeing the danger.

CHURCHILL SEEKS HIDING TO ESCAPE FURY OF MOB.

OUTBREAK COMES DURING SPEECH BY THE HOME SECRETARY DELIVERED IN FRONT OF THE LIBERAL CLUB.

LONDON, Dec. 3—A serious riot, in which many were badly wounded and Home Secretary Winston Churchill was compelled to seek a hiding place to escape being wounded, and perhaps killed, took place outside the Liberal club today.

The outbreak came during a political speech, which was being delivered by Mr. Churchill.

Hotly contested elections are being held today in 69 districts.

WATCHMEN ATTACKED BY A MOB.

COLD INFURIATES STRIKERS; FAMILIES SUFFER IN STORM.

CHICAGO POLICE DEPARTMENT STRENGTHENED TO HANDLE MOBS SURROUNDING GARMENT MAKING PLANTS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3—Two watchmen employed by the garment makers to guard their plants were attacked by a mob today and beaten insensible.

The strikers have become infuriated by the heavy snow storm and severe cold and continued suffering of their families.

The police forces were reinforced today following the killing of Charles Lazinskas, a striker, by Special Detective Yacullo. The mob of strikers, bent on revenge, attacked Yacullo, who was rescued by the police.

A peace conference is still in session and hopes are entertained that a settlement will be reached by tonight.

SUSPECT PROMINENT MEN OF MURDER AND ROBBERY.

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 3—Three prominent residents of Tyler county are now under surveilance and suspicion in connection with the murder and robbery of Elizabeth Allen, a rich widow, after the verdict of murder returned by the coroner's jury today. The robbers got $8,000.

TAFT BANK IS ROBBED; BANDITS MAKE ESCAPE.

HANOVER, Kas., Dec. 3—The Taft state bank was robbed of $1,500 by five bandits, who made their escape in an automobile this morning.

Why the Residents of the Tomoka Basin Are Enthusiastic Over Their Future

Symptomatic Ointment.

An old lady went complained to the "sympathetic ointment" according to the following prescription: "Take tissue of a cat, man's hat, two ounces; essence, one oz.; ammonia, man's wool, of each half an oz.; linseed oil, twenty-two oz.; oil of roses, peppermint, of each an oz. Put them together in a mortar till it be like unto an ointment, keep it in a pot." Then all the sick person needed was the weapon with which a man had been stricken. This he anointed with the ointment, pressed to the wound and was well again.

An Expensive Present.

Young Wife—Jack, father always gives expensive things when he makes presents.

Husband—So I discovered when he gave you away. (And then he went into the library to write a check for the monthly millinery bill.)

And Sidetracks Them.

"Miss Flirty attracts the men."

"Yes, and then she distracts them."—Boston Transcript.

Light Fabric.

Scientists have been engaged to take advantage of the light across gray matter in the "white currents" and then convert it into electricity. The generation has been attributed to the combination of carbonic acid exposed to oxidized hydrogen. The theory has been shown to be a failure by persons who have passed their middle fortunes for so called tea and tea to boot. The attempt has thus failed over centuries and over invasion and prestige which of what is terrible. Experiments patents which the Tomoka has in the basin of the land. The most plausible theory is that the phenomenon is due to electrical disturbance taking place between the ground.—Harper's Weekly.

The First Business Woman.

We don't presently associate the Bible with business matters, but if you were told to name the first business woman mentioned in the Bible what would you say?

It was Elizabeth's daughter, because she took a prophet out of work.

The Best Policy.

A local woman had found trouble during the morning in repairing her small daughter with torn the mail pretty. It seemed to hurt the child's feelings considerably. In the afternoon the little girl sat on the sofa with a pamphlet out of the window apparently engrossed and remained, running over in the side of the little girl, placed her hand on the child's shoulder and asked, "What are you thinking about, dear?"

"I 'am just thinkin'," said the little girl, "if I want all or right hand inside."—Everybody's.

FOUND DEAD IN HER BED IN HOSPITAL.

STRANGE CRIME REVEALED BY THE POLICE IN PARIS.

YOUNG WOMAN IS EVIDENTLY STRANGLED AND AUTHORITIES ARE LOOKING FOR A STRANGE YOUNG MAN.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Police inquiries have brought to light a strange crime committed in a small flat in the Orenelle quarter of Paris, where a young woman was found dead in her bed, having apparently been strangled. She was employed as a special cook for the house doctors and nurses at the Saint Antoine hospital in Paris. She was 26 years of age, rather nice looking and a great favorite among the doctors and nurses.

The police were informed and a search was made in the room which she occupied at the hospital. All her personal effects, including a gold watch and chain and other valuables [illegible]

The young woman had expressed fears about him of late, and is said to have told a friend that this man had threatened her. He had been without employment recently, and there were some differences between them. The police have no further clues, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

CALL ISSUED FOR MEETING TO CONSIDER THE PRIMARY.

T. J. SPARKMAN CALLS DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE MEMBERS TO GATHER IN DELAND NEXT TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

A call has been issued by Hon. T. J. Sparkman, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, for a meeting of the committee to be held at DeLand next Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. The object stated in the call is to consider the matter of calling a primary in conformity to the call of the state committee for the nomination of a United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Napoleon B. Broward.

The committee at its meeting some time ago decided not to hold a primary election in this county [illegible]

FLAMES SWEEP AWAY HOME; ST. AUGUSTINE HOUSE BURNS.

BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE OF A. E. CARY DESTROYED BY FIRE ORIGINATING FROM SPARK FROM THE CHIMNEY.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Dec. 1—Fire Thursday afternoon completely destroyed the beautiful suburban home of A. E. Cary, a well known citizen and prominent business man of New Augustine. His home was located on the Moultrie road just south of Oyster creek. The loss will total several thousand dollars, the property being only partly covered by insurance. The flames are supposed to have sprung from sparks from the chimney alighting on the roof.

Mr. Cary was at dinner when the fire started. There was the usual cheery blaze in the fireplace of the home and the family had no suspicion of trouble until their attention was attracted by the shouts of neighbors. Mr. Cary discovered that the roof was in flames. He had one chemical fire extinguisher at hand and did good work with this but the flames spread too fast, fanned by the wind.

COL. JOHN BRADLEY DIES; PASSES AWAY AT DeLAND.

WELL KNOWN JUSTICE OF THE PEACE AT THE COUNTY SEAT LOVED FOR HIS CHARITABLE DISPOSITION.

Word has been received here of the death of Col. John A. Bradley, aged 78 years, an old and respected citizen of DeLand. Death came last Wednesday night and the funeral services were held in DeLand Friday.

Col. Bradley was a veteran of the confederate army and had lived in DeLand since the county seat was changed to that place. Practically the whole of that time he had served the community in the capacity of justice of the peace and carried on his practice as an attorney. He was highly educated, speaking several languages, and was greatly loved for his kind and charitable disposition.

He is survived by his widow and several grown children.

FOUND DEAD IN HER BED IN HOSPITAL.

STRANGE CRIME REVEALED BY THE POLICE IN PARIS.

YOUNG WOMAN IS EVIDENTLY STRANGLED AND AUTHORITIES ARE LOOIKNG FOR A STRANGE YOUNG MAN.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Police inquiries have brought to light a strange crime committed in a small flat in the Grenelle quarter of Paris, where a young woman was found dead in her bed, having apparently been strangled. She was employed as a special cook for the house doctors and nurses at the Saint Antoine hospital in Paris. She was 36 years of age, rather nice looking and a great favorite among the doctors and nurses.

The police were informed and a search was made in the room which she occupied at the hospital. All her personal effects, including a gold watch and chain and other valuables, were still there. It was then learned that she had a little flat in the Grenelle quarter, which was neatly furnished, and where she usually spent Saturday evenings. The police decided to visit the flat. It was in perfect order and an empty champaigne bottle was standing on the drawing room table.

The bed seemed to be untouched, and the police, perhaps, would have retired if their suspicions had not been aroused by something unusual in the bedroom. They raised the covering and found the corpse of the young woman dying on its face. She had already been dead several days, and seemed to have been strangled. The cupboards wree then opened but no trace of the money which she had received for the hospital could be found.

Further inquiry showed that the young woman had been frequently seen with a tall, strongly-built, fair young man, who was not a Frenchman, and who is described as having been her lover. He had been seen Sunday morning, and had been in the flat. Since then he has disappeared, and one report states that he is supposed to be in London.

The young woman had expressed fears about him of late, and is said to have told a friend that this man had threatened her. He had been without employment recently, and there were some differences between them. The police have no further clues, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

The committee at its meeting some time ago decided not to hold a primary election in this county unless the expense of it be borne by the state committee or some one other than the county committee, that organization having no funds in its exchequer. Just what action the committee will take Tuesday is hard to determine, but it is likely the members will devise some means to enable the Democrats of Volusia county to express a choice as to who they prefer as next United States Senator.

Portugal has not always been called Portugal. It was formerly Lusitania. The present name is derived from Porto Callo, the ancient name of the town now known to us as Oporto.

A panic was caused in the Nevsky prospect, St. Petersburg's chief street, by the appearance of a man driving a small cart to which two wolves and a fox were harnessed. Eventually the man was arrested.

While fishing off Dungeness, Mr. Burrough of Wanstead Park, London, caught a conger weighing sixteen and one-half pounds, and upon opening it found a whole fresh herring wrapped up in a German newspaper.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE is a pretty little village situated five miles south of Daytona on the Daytona-New Smyrna hard-surface road, the scenic highway of the East Coast. The town is located on the Halifax River, and is connected with the peninsula opposite by a bridge.

The town is well laid out and has many pretty homes. A large number of tourists and winter residents make Port Orange winter headquarters, one of the several attractions being the excellent fishing.

A short distance west of Port Orange are the remains of the old Dunlawton sugar mill, a place that is visited every year by hundreds of tourists. One time all the country west of Port Orange, surrounding the old mill, was a vast indigo and sugar cane plantation. The mill was operated extensively in those early days but has been in disuse for forty or fifty years.

A very interesting drive from Daytona is by ocean beach to the approach of the Port Orange bridge, across the bridge and then passing through the principal street of Port Orange to the ruins of the celebrated old sugar mill, returning to Daytona by the road on the mainland.

BUY CHRISTMAS PRESENTS EARLY

Consider Hardworking Sales Persons and Do It Now.

YULETIDE PERIOD OF TORTURE

Read "The Night of the Children" and Learn of the Shopgirl Who Worked Fifteen Hours Daily and Spent Her Holiday Delirious in a Hospital So Belated Shoppers Could Be Satisfied.

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY.

The crusade to persuade millions of thoughtless Christmas shoppers to make their purchases early is on again. For years this carelessness has caused the mental and physical wear and tear of the employees of the big department stores and the little shops alike. The week before Christmas sees salesgirls working fifteen hours a day because happy parents, dutiful children, expectant bridegrooms, etc., think it necessary to delay their shopping until the eleventh hour. For all this the shopgirl suffers. It was to aid this cause that James Oppenheim wrote the following story for the Survey.

The Night of the Children

By JAMES OPPENHEIM

Christmas was in the air. The frosty, starry night turned golden in the city avenues. Up and down the pavement the crowds swept, laughing, talking, jostling, cheeks ruddy with the weather, eyes sparkling with the lights. As they moved there unrolled beside them the endless film of brilliant shop windows crammed with riches, and through the swinging doors eddies of people were sucked in and ejected. At the curb the toy peddlers shouted, the chestnut stands sent up their smoke.

It seemed as if the millions of the city had poured out to mingle in a street festival of joy and brotherhood. People laughed at one another; a wine of good humor drenched the air. It was as if on this night hate and strife and greed had been sloughed off, as if the race said: "Come, let us be happy with one another. We are all here together. Let us meet and mingle in joy and good will and peace!"

All For the Children.

It was the night of the children. Far through the sleeping city the million children were in their beds, and it was for them that these people met. For their children they were sweeping the shops, that Christmas morning might dawn with the candles of the pine and hanging bulgy stockings and the mysterious new toys. And it was the thought of the children possibly that made these men and women so light footed, so bubblingly joyous, so innocently happy. It made children of them, and they mingled with each other like laughing, rollicking boys and girls.

There was one vast department store, nearly a block square and six stories high, which sucked in vast masses of the crowd. Pendant from its ceilings hung white moons of light, and under these a density of humanity slowly swirled about the sparkling laden counters. The air was overwarm with breathing and tingled with the excitement of shuffling shoes, rattle of packages and a hive hum of talk and exclamations. The place was electric with the push of many wills, the clash of desires, the impeded hurry, the drawing near of closing time. Ten thirty had come and gone and yet the crowd was unsatisfied; it hungered and strained and clamored and struggled to get its fill.

Impatient For "Snow."

One counter especially was besieged. At this were sold five cent packages of "snow" for Christmas trees. Behind this counter stood Mamie Riggs, seventeen years old, thin, emaciated, bloodless, her face pale and drawn and wrinkled, her eyes bloodshot, her lips trembling. As she made out checks and received and made change and handled the envelopes her hands visibly shook. Faces crowded near her, leaned close, arms lifted, fingers jerked near her eyes.

"This snow?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"How much?"
"Five cents."
"Only one for five?"
"Only one."
"How much is a package?"
"I don't know, ma'am."
"Don't know?"

No Patience For Shopgirl.

At least five voices interrupted: "See here, I want a half dozen of these." "Where's my change?" "I can't wait all night!" "Isn't there any one to wait on me?" "Say, I'll speak to the floorwalker if I don't get proper attention!"

Mamie answered as best she could. "Just a minute! You said five—six? Change hasn't come. I can't help it, ma'am! Yes, it's five a package!

CLEVER RASCALS.

Robbers of Naples as Daring as They Are Resourceful.

SCHEME OF ONE LONE THIEF.

Masterly Manner In Which This Audacious Rogue Pilfered a Church Furnishing Shop and Corded Up the Too Confiding Proprietor.

His name was Signor Domenico Doctor Dolcissetti, and he was lost in Rome. For a scholar with a degree he enjoyed his meals rather unrestrainedly, but after the spaghetti and capretto had disappeared he used to slow his pace over the finocchio con vino and to straighten his back, wipe his mustache and begin his stories.

"Napoli? Si, si! Naples? Bella citta, beautiful, beautiful! And what thieves are they in Naples! It is the one city where you cannot lead a donkey through the streets."

There did not seem to be much connection between these, and our puzzled looks said so.

"Perche? You dare not lead. You must take him by the tail, for when the unsuspecting peasant leads an ass laden with panniers or onions or wood into Naples before long he happens to glance back, and, behold, all is gone—produce, panniers, pack saddle, all filched. Thereafter he takes the ass by the tail and steers him through the streets that he may watch constantly.

"Poi—it is all organized. Some years ago the leader of the robbers was the captain. Everybody knew him. When anything was stolen from one, one went not to the police, but to the captain.

"There was a little music master came home one day and found his piano gone, a whole piano, and no one in the house could say how, when or where it went. The little man was distracted.

"Then he took heart and went to the captain and stood before him with his hat in his hands. He was just a poor music teacher. His piano was all he had in the world. He— 'Go,' said the captain. 'At 6 this evening you have your piano.' And about the time of the service that afternoon a wagon came to the little man's door, and four men heaved out a piano, which they set in its accustomed corner; then they drove off without a word.

"Poi, the music man, went again to the captain's house and began to thank him and to fumble about in his pockets, saying that he did not have much, about 20 lire, all his savings—22 lire perhaps. 'What—twenty-two lire!' yelled the other. 'I, who am rich, whom men call the captain—22 lire to me! You poor'— And he kicked him down the stairs.

"But the most remarkable robbery was done not by the band, but by a Neapolitan single handed.

"One day there drove up to a church furnishing shop an equipage with two prancing horses and a liveried coachman and halted before the big windows full of precious finery. A beautifully dressed little signor alighted and asked to see the proprietor. He said he had a cousin who would the next day be ordained bishop and he desired to purchase appropriate gifts. First he would see a crozier. The proprietor fetched a superb crozier of silver, the crook of it gold, wonderfully chased and overwrought with carving.

"'How much?' asked the well dressed man.

"'Five thousand lire, signor.'

"'Good! Tie it up and put it in the carriage. And let me see also a miter.' And again he chose the costliest, one frosted with silver arabesques and beaded with pearls. He sat down to write a check for 8,000 lire altogether. But, no; he would see also a bishop's ring. 'How much was this one?'

"'Two thousand lire, signor.'

"'Good!' And that, too, went into the carriage with the miter and crozier. Finally this princely customer would buy a complete vesture and decided on a figured silk broidered with cloth of gold from shoulder to foot. 'Only,' he doubted, 'will it fit? But stay,' he said to the shopman; 'you are a big man, almost as large as my cousin. See if the garment will fit you.' So the proprietor put it on and stood clothed in magnificence from cravat to ankle.

"'Good! Beautiful! Only the waist. My cousin happens to be enormous of girth. Suppose you put your arms at your sides, and I shall fit the girdle to include them. That will about equal my cousin's waist.' So he buckled the belt tight about the proprietor's wrists and moved back to survey the effect. 'Bona! Bellissima! Most beautiful!' he cried. 'And now, signor—buon giorno!' He skipped through the door, into his carriage and whirled downtown.

"At that 'Good day' the proprietor let out one awful yell and bounded into the street. 'Thief!' he screeched. He crashed into astounded people, tripped in his golden skirts, rolled and could not get up again.

"People would not touch him, kicking and frothing and trying to point—'Thief, thief'—would not even look in the direction of the vanishing carriage. Finally the police grabbed him, discovered that he was insane and a robber and hustled him to prison. Poi—they let him go next morning."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LIKE SHEEP.

Out in Wyoming a big flock of sheep was grazing on a mountain side near a deep canyon. The herder was taking a nap.

Tempted by the grass below, a venturesome wether jumped down to a ledge on the side of the canyon. The ledge would not hold more than a half dozen sheep.

Sheeplike, another made the jump, and then another.

And, sheeplike, those in the rear crowded those in front, and those in front jumped because the others jumped.

In a few minutes almost the entire flock had gone over. There was a bruised, bloody mass at the bottom of the canyon.

That is the way of sheep.

And there is a sheep quality in human nature which tends to a like following of leadership, impulsively and without question.

You can see it in operation in politics, in religion, in business, in society. The politician is especially expert in using the sheep disposition. He has a way of getting the representative men of the community, "the bellwethers," and the crowd obediently troops behind its leaders.

A man is accused of a crime. A crowd surrounds him. Some one cries out, "Lynch him!" Innocent or guilty, the man is in imminent danger because the mob spirit has been evoked.

Did you ever read "The Crowd?"

The book is a study of the sheep disposition of humans—the psychology of the public mind.

Shrewd advertisers, says the author, take advantage of us by means of affirmation and repetition—that is to say, they publish a thing over and over again until we believe it.

The village gossip uses a like method in an evil manner. She starts a rumor or enlarges one. In its journey it grows into slander by affirmation and repetition.

In the outcome some one's reputation is ruined.

The milliners and tailors of Paris and New York know how to use the sheeplike disposition of the human mind for profit. They set the styles, start out the leaders, and, sheeplike, the people follow and buy.

Do not be a sheep.

Do your own thinking.

If you follow a leader be sure you know where he leads.

Do not jump into a canyon because some one else has jumped—maybe to his destruction.

A Mean Trick.

Being anxious as to his prospects in one of his early attempts to enter parliament, Herbert Samuel consulted his agent, who said the chances were not rosy, because he was a "carpetbagger."

Mr. Samuel thereupon promised to live in the division if he were successful, and bills were immediately posted that "if Herbert Samuel is returned next Tuesday he will come to live here."

Some of the other side, however, posted one of these bills on a pigsty.

Mr. Samuel did not win the election.—London Telegraph.

Taking His Medicine.

He found his hair was leaving the top of his head and took his barber to task about it.

"You sold me two bottles of stuff to make this hair grow."

"It is very strange it won't grow again," interrupted the barber. "I don't understand it."

"Well, look here," said the man, "I don't mind drinking another bottle, but this must be the last."—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

Great Prospects.

"I'm at the end of my rope! Every resource I have is gone, and I'm broke at last."

"Have you borrowed all you can?"

"Borrowed! No; I haven't tried that."

"And you say you are at the end of your rope. Why, man, you haven't even started!"—Toledo Blade.

JUDGE FISH WILL HOLD COURT SOON.

DECEMBER TERM ORDERED; NUMBER OF CASES LISTED.

COMING SESSION OF COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT WILL SEE FIRST OFFICIAL APPEARANCE OF JUDGE FISH.

DeLAND, Dec. 2—The December term of the Volusia county criminal court will be held a week from next Tuesday. At present there are but few cases to come up for trial. This term, however, will be of more than ordinary interest as it marks the accession to the bench of the newly appointed judge, Hon. Bert Fish, and the first official donning of the county solicitor's toga by Roy P. Hamlin.

These two officials are preparing themselves for their coming duties at that time. Mr. Hamlin has been busy the past few weeks getting his cases ready, investigating evidence and finding witnesses for the State. He is becoming zealous in the enforcement of laws and has some innovations to make in the near future as to the lax condition of several of the laws, particularly those of infractions of that law pertaining to the selling of cigarettes to minors under the age of eighteen, and, also, the law demanding the use of wide tires on wagons used for heavy traffic.

There are about fifteen or twenty cases so far to come up in this term of court, most of the accused being on bond. Awaiting trial in jail are Will Robinson, negro, illegal sale of liquor, Mose McLendon, negro, vagrancy, "W" Williams, negro, aggravated assault.

MEMBERS OF ASTOR FAMILY AGAIN IN THE LIME LIGHT.

COLONEL JOHN JACOB ASTOR IS ACCUSED OF ENTANGLEMENTS WITH A PROMINENT RUSSIAN ACTRESS.

PARIS, Dec. 2—The wealthy Astor family of New York no doubt agrees to the truth of the old saying, "It never rains but it pours." No sooner have the Astors succeeded in silencing, if only for a time, the scandal resulting from the row between Robert Winthrop Chandler, a near relative of the Astors, and his wife, Lina Cavalieri, than word reaches the French capital of the interesting observations made to newspapers in the United States by the Countess de Swirsky, a Russian barefoot dancer, well known in certain circles of Paris, and who is now appearing on the stage in the West, concerning Col. John Jacob Astor, of New York, and the attentions she claims he paid her while they were in Paris some time ago.

The "Countess" asserts that while she was appearing in her stage dances here the colonel pestered her with his attentions, sending her expensive flowers, inviting her to dine and engaging "a whole row of seats" at the theatre where she was appearing, and which seats were purposely occupied by no one but himself. While due allowances are made for the Russian woman's desire to do some press agent work in her own behalf, it is also known that Colonel Astor did witness her performances in Paris more than once, consequently there is a strong inclination here to "give her the benefit of the doubt."

The Old Greek Cuirass.

The Greeks had a cuirass made of linen or woolen fibers which was impenetrable to the sharpest darts or spears. That, by the way, is one of the discoveries that have not been rediscovered, for we do not know the secret of its manufacture.

Town and Country Property

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man runneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and overarched by hoary forest giants that grew in stately grandeur during the lapse of bygone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the state of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accommodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the state is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

BUY CHRISTMAS PRESENTS EARLY

Consider Hardworking Sales Persons and Do It Now.

YULETIDE PERIOD OF TORTURE

Read "The Night of the Children" and Learn of the Shopgirl Who Worked Fifteen Hours Daily and Spent Her Holiday Delirious In a Hospital So Belated Shoppers Could Be Satisfied.

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY.

The crusade to persuade millions of thoughtless Christmas shoppers to make their purchases early is on again. For years this carelessness has caused the mental and physical wear and tear of the employees of the big department stores and the little shops alike. The week before Christmas sees salesgirls working fifteen hours a day because happy parents, dutiful children, expectant bridegrooms, etc., think it necessary to delay their shopping until the eleventh hour. For all this the shopgirl suffers. It was to aid this cause that James Oppenheim wrote the following story for the Survey.

The Night of the Children

By JAMES OPPENHEIM

Christmas was in the air. The frosty, starry night turned golden in the city avenues. Up and down the pavement the crowds swept, laughing, talking, jostling, cheeks ruddy with the weather, eyes sparkling with the lights. As they moved there unrolled beside them the endless film of brilliant shop windows crammed with riches, and through the swinging doors eddies of people were sucked in and ejected. At the curb the toy peddlers shouted, the chestnut stands sent up their smoke.

It seemed as if the millions of the city had poured out to mingle in a street festival of joy and brotherhood. People laughed at one another; a wine of good humor drenched the air. It was as if on this night hate and strife and greed had been sloughed off; as if the race said: "Come, let us be happy with one another. We are all here together. Let us meet and mingle in joy and good will and peace!"

All For the Children.

It was the night of the children. Far through the sleeping city the million children were in their beds, and it was for them that these people met. For their children they were sweeping the shops, that Christmas morning might dawn with the candles of the pine and hanging bulgy stockings and the mysterious new toys. And it was the thought of the children possibly that made these men and women so light footed, so bubblingly joyous, so innocently happy. It made children of them, and they mingled with each other like laughing, rollicking boys and girls.

There was one vast department store, nearly a block square and six stories high, which sucked in vast masses of the crowd. Pendent from its ceilings hung white moons of light, and under these a density of humanity slowly swirled about the sparking laden counters. The air was overwarm with breathing and tingled with the excitement of shuffling shoes, rattle of packages and a hive hum of talk and exclamations. The place was electric with the push of many wills, the clash of desires, the impeded hurry, the drawing near of closing time. Ten-thirty had come and gone and yet the crowd was unsatisfied; it hungered and strained and clamored and struggled to get its fill.

Impatient For "Snow."

One counter especially was besieged. At this were sold five cent packages of "snow" for Christmas trees. Behind this counter stood Mamie Riggs, seventeen years old, thin, emaciated, bloodless, her face pale and drawn and wrinkled, her eyes bloodshot, her lips trembling. As she made out checks and received and made change and handled the envelopes her hands visibly shook. Faces crowded near her, leaned close, arms lifted, fingers jerked near her eyes.

"This snow?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"How much?"

"Five cents."

"Only one for five?"

"Only one."

"How much in a package?"

"I don't know, ma'am."

"Don't know?"

No Patience For Shopgirl.

At least five voices interrupted:

"See here, I want a half dozen of these." "Where's my change?" "I can't wait all night!" "Isn't there any one to wait on me?" "Say, I'll speak to the floorwalker if I don't get proper attention!"

Mamie answered as best she could.

"Just a minute! You said five—six? Change hasn't come. I can't help it, ma'am! Yes, it's five a package!

CLEVER RASCALS.

Robbers of Naples as Daring as They Are Resourceful.

SCHEME OF ONE LONE THIEF.

Masterly Manner In Which This Audacious Rogue Pilfered a Church Furnishing Shop and Corded Up Its Too Confiding Proprietor.

His name was Signor Domenico Doctor Dolchinetti, and he was host in Rome. For a scholar with a degree he enjoyed his meals rather unrestrainedly, but after the spaghetti and capretto had disappeared he used to slow his pace over the finocchio con vino and to straighten his back, wipe his mustache and begin his stories.

"Napoli? Si, si! Naples? Bella citta, beautiful, beautiful! And what thieves are they in Naples! It is the one city where you cannot lead a donkey through the streets."

There did not seem to be much connection between these, and our puzzled looks said so.

"Perche? You dare not lead. You must take him by the tail, for when the unsuspecting peasant leads an ass laden with panniers or onions or wood into Naples before long he happens to glance back, and, behold, all is gone—produce, panniers, pack saddle, all filched. Thereafter he takes the ass by the tail and steers him through the streets that he may watch constantly.

"Poi—it is all organized. Some years ago the leader of the robbers was the captain. Everybody knew him. When anything was stolen from one, one went not to the police, but to the captain.

"There was a little music master came home one day and found his piano gone, a whole piano, and no one in the house could say how, when or where it went. The little man was distracted.

"Then he took heart and went to the captain and stood before him with his hat in his hands. He was just a poor music teacher. His piano was all he had in the world. He— 'Go,' said the captain. 'At 6 this evening you have your piano.' And about the time of the service that afternoon a wagon came to the little man's door, and four men heaved out a piano, which they set in its accustomed corner; then they drove off without a word.

"Poi, the music man, went again to the captain's house and began to thank him and to fumble about in his pockets, saying that he did not have much, about 20 lire, all his savings—22 lire perhaps. "What—twenty-two lire!" yelled the other. 'I, who am rich, whom men call the captain—22 lire to me! You poor'— And he kicked him down the stairs.

"But the most remarkable robbery was done not by the band, but by a Neapolitan single handed.

"One day there drove up to a church furnishing shop an equipage with two prancing horses and a liveried coachman and halted before the big windows full of precious finery. A beautifully dressed little signor alighted and asked to see the proprietor. He said he had a cousin who would the next day be ordained bishop and he desired to purchase appropriate gifts. First he would see a crozier. The proprietor fetched a superb crozier of silver, the crook of it gold, wonderfully chased and overwrought with carving.

"'How much?' asked the well dressed man.

"'Five thousand lire, signor.'

"'Good! Tie it up and put it in the carriage. And let me see also a miter. And again he chose the costliest, one frosted with silver arabesques and beaded with pearls. He sat down to write a check for 8,000 lire altogether. But, no; he would see also a bishop's ring. "How much was this one?'

"'Two thousand lire, signor.'

"'Good!' And that, too, went into the carriage with the miter and crozier. Finally this princely customer would buy a complete vesture and decided on a figured alb broidered with cloth of gold from shoulder to foot. 'Only,' he doubted, 'will it fit? But stay,' he said to the shopman; 'you are a big man, almost as large as my cousin. See if the garment will fit you.' So the proprietor put it on and stood clothed in magnificence from cravat to ankle.

"'Good!. Beautiful! Only the waist. My cousin happens to be enormous of girth. Suppose you put your arms at your sides, and I shall fix the girdle to include them. That will about equal my cousin's waist.' So he buckled the belt tight about the proprietor's wrists and moved back to survey the effect. 'Boun! Bellissima! Most beautiful!' he cried. 'And now, signor—buon giorno!' He skipped through the door, into his carriage and whirled downtown.

"At that 'Good day' the proprietor let out one awful yell and bounded into the street. 'Thief!' he screeched. He crashed into astounded people, tripped in his golden skirts, rolled and could not get up again.

"People would not touch him, kicking and frothing and trying to point —'Thief, thief'—would not even look in the direction of the vanishing carriage. Finally the police grabbed him, discovered that he was insane and a robber and hustled him to prison. Poi—they let him go next morning."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LIKE SHEEP.

Out in Wyoming a big flock of sheep was grazing on a mountain side near a deep canyon. The herder was taking a nap.

Tempted by the grass below, a venturesome wether jumped down to a ledge on the side of the canyon. The ledge would not hold more than a half dozen sheep.

Sheeplike, another made the jump and then another.

And, sheeplike, those in the rear crowded those in front, and those in front jumped because the others jumped.

In a few minutes almost the entire flock had gone over. There was a bruised, bloody mass at the bottom of the canyon.

That is the way of sheep.

And there is a sheep quality in human nature which tends to a like following of leadership, impulsively and without question.

You can see it in operation in politics, in religion, in business, in society. The politician is especially expert in using the sheep disposition. He has a way of getting the representative men of the community, "the bellwethers," and the crowd obediently troops behind its leaders.

A man is accused of a crime. A crowd surrounds him. Some one cries out, "Lynch him!" Innocent or guilty, the man is in imminent danger because the mob spirit has been evoked.

Did you ever read "The Crowd?"

The book is a study of the sheep disposition of humans—the psychology of the public mind.

Shrewd advertisers, says the author, take advantage of us by means of affirmation and repetition—that is to say, they publish a thing over and over again until we believe it.

The village gossip uses a like method in an evil manner. She starts a rumor or enlarges one. In its journey it grows into slander by affirmation and repetition.

In the outcome some one's reputation is ruined.

The milliners and tailors of Paris and New York know how to use the sheeplike disposition of the human mind for profit. They set the styles, start out the leaders, and, sheeplike, the people follow and buy.

Do not be a sheep.

Do your own thinking.

If you follow a leader be sure you know where he leads.

Do not jump into a canyon because some one else has jumped—mayhap to his destruction.

A Mean Trick.

Being anxious as to his prospects in one of his early attempts to enter parliament, Herbert Samuel consulted his agent, who said the chances were not rosy, because he was a "carpetbagger."

Mr. Samuel thereupon promised to live in the division if he were successful, and bills were immediately posted that "if Herbert Samuel is returned next Tuesday he will come to live here."

Some of the other side, however, posted one of these bills on a pigsty.

Mr. Samuel did not win the election. —London Telegraph.

Taking His Medicine.

He found his hair was leaving the top of his head and took his barber to task about it.

"You sold me two bottles of stuff to make this hair grow."

"It is very strange it won't grow again," interrupted the barber. "I can't understand it."

"Well, look here," said the man, "I don't mind drinking another bottle, but this must be the last."—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

Great Prospects.

"I'm at the end of my rope! Every resource I have is gone, and I'm broke at last."

"Have you borrowed all you can?"

"Borrowed? No; I haven't tried that."

"And you say you are at the end of your rope. Why, man, you haven't even started!"—Toledo Blade.

JUDGE FISH WILL HOLD COURT SOON.

DECEMBER TERM ORDERED; NUMBER OF CASES LISTED.

COMING SESSION OF COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT WILL SEE FIRST OFFICIAL APPEARANCE OF JUDGE FISH.

DeLAND, Dec. 3—The December term of the Volusia county criminal court will be held a week from next Tuesday. At present there are but few cases to come up for trial. This term, however, will be of more than ordinary interest as it marks the accession to the bench of the newly appointed judge, Hon. Bert Fish, and the first official donning of the county solicitor's togs by Roy P. Hamlin.

These two officials are preparing themselves for their coming duties at that time. Mr. Hamlin has been busy the past few weeks getting his cases ready, investigating evidence and finding witnesses for the State.

He is becoming zealous in the enforcement of laws and has some innovations to make in the near future as to the lax condition of several of the laws, particularly those of infractions of that law pertaining to the selling of cigarettes to minors under the age of eighteen, and, also, the law demanding the use of wide tires on wagons used for heavy traffic.

There are about fifteen or twenty cases so far to come up in this term of court, most of the accused being on bond. Awaiting trial in jail are Will Robinson, negro, illegal sale of liquor, Mac. McLendon, negro, vagrancy Wil' Williams, negro, aggravated assault.

MEMBERS OF ASTOR FAMILY AGAIN IN THE LIME LIGHT.

COLONEL JOHN JACOB ASTOR IS ACCUSED OF ENTANGLEMENTS WITH A PROMINENT RUSSIAN ACTRESS.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The wealthy Astor family of New York no doubt agrees to the truth of the old saying, "It never rains but it pours." No sooner have the Astors succeeded in silencing, if only for a time, the scandal resulting from the row between Robert Winthrop Chandler, a near relative of the Astors, and his wife, Lina Cavalieri, than word reaches the French capital of the interesting observations made to newspapers in the United States by the Countess de Swirzsky, a Russian barefoot dancer, well known in certain circles of Paris, and who is now appearing on the stage in the West, concerning Col. John Jacob Astor, of New York, and the attentions she claims he paid her while they were in Paris some time ago.

The "Countess" asserts that while she was appearing in her stage dances here the colonel pestered her with his attentions, sending her expensive flowers, inviting her to dine and engaging "a whole row of seats" at the theater where she was appearing, and which seats were purposely occupied by no one but himself. While due allowances are made for the Russian woman's desire to do some press agent work in her own behelf, it is also known that Colonel Astor did witness her performances in Paris more than once, consequently there is a strong inclination here to "give her the benefit of the doubt."

The Old Greek Cuirass.

The Greeks had a cuirass made of linen or woolen fibers which was impenetrable to the sharpest darts or spears. That, by the way, is one of the discoveries that have not been rediscovered, for we do not know the secret of its manufacture.

PALMETTO CLUB MEETING.

PRESIDENT'S DAY OPENED SEASON'S REGULAR SESSIONS.

FIRST MEETING OF THE PALMETTO CLUB FOR THE PRESENT SEASON HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The Palmetto Club gathered for their meeting of the season, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 1.

Though the weather gave a cold reception, the president's greeting was warm and hearty, as she welcomed the members on the first day of her presiding, though she had been active in her duties all through the long summer.

Mrs. J. D. Downing, delegate to the bi-ennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Cincinnati, Ohio, sent an interesting report of that convention, which was beautifully read by Mrs. C. H. Abbott.

The president, Mrs. Graham Thompson, also gave a report of the General Federation, having attended the biennial, at Cincinnati, last spring. The subject was handled interestingly and instructively, giving many good thoughts.

Mrs. S. D. Gemmell was the delegate to the State Federation held at Ocala the middle of November, as the president had spent two days longer at Ocala Mrs. Gemmell requested her to give part of this report.

It was reported to have a banquet on January 5, place and plans to be decided upon later.

Six new members were received.

The following announcements were made:

The Civic Department will hold a fair early in February for the benefit of Island Park and wish every member to assist. There will be a fancy table and donations will be received by Miss Mollie Wilder, between now and the first of February.

The Club Day, Dec. 15, will be in charge of the Philanthropic department. An address will be given by Rev. Hankins.

There will be a Christmas shower for the colored kindergartens and candy, fruit, toys or anything suitable will be gladly received.

The year book promises many good things and reflects credit on the calendar committee.

The club officers were the hostesses of the day.

The president gave a discription of the hearty welcome received, of the free banquet tendered by the Ocala club and told of many of the bright women who shed their light over the sessions of the meeting of the State Federation.

Mrs. Campbell gave an interesting report of what the different clubs are accomplishing and showed what an influence they have all through the State. She told of the compliment the Palmetto Club had received as Mrs. Graham Thompson's paper was considered one of the best and it was voted to have it printed in the Times-Union of Jacksonville.

The music was in charge of Mrs. Horatio Stewart. Miss Grace F. DeCamp, accompanied by Miss Williams, sang:

(A)—I Had My Love.

(B)—When Love Is Gone.

At the closing Miss DeCamp sang Believe Me If In Morn.

A Spanish Newspaper Ad.

PALMETTO CLUB MEETING.

PRESIDENT'S DAY OPENED SEASON'S REGULAR SESSIONS.

FIRST MEETING OF THE PALMETTO CLUB FOR THE PRESENT SEASON HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The Palmetto Club gathered for first meeting of the season, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 1.

Though the weather gave a cold reception, the president's greeting was warm and hearty, as she welcomed the members on the first day of her presiding, though she had been active in her duties all through the long summer.

Mrs J. E. Downing, delegate to the bi-enniel meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Cincinnati, Ohio, sent an interesting report of that convention, which was beautifully read by Mrs. C. H. Abbott.

The president, Mrs. Graham Thompson, also gave a report of the General Federation, having attended the bienniel, at Cincinnati, last spring. The subject was handled interestingly and instructively, giving many good thoughts.

Mrs. S. D. Gammell was the delegate to the State Federation held at Ocala the middle of November, as the president had spent two days longer at Ocala Mrs. Gammell requested her to give part of this report.

It was reported to have a banquet on January 5, place and plans to be decided upon later.

Six new members were received.

The following announcements were made:

The Civic Department will hold a fair early in February for the benefit of Island Park and wish every member to assist. There will be a fancy table and donations will be received by Miss Mollie Wilder, between now and the first of February.

The Club Day, Dec. 15, will be in charge of the Philanthropic department. An address will be given by Rev. Haskins.

There will be a Christmas shower for the colored kindergartens and candy, fruit, toys or anything suitable will be gladly received.

The year book promises many good things and reflects credit on the calendar committee.

The club officers were the hostesses of the day.

The president gave a discription of the hearty welcome received, of the free banquet tendered by the Ocala club and told of many of the bright women who shed their light over the session of the meeting of the State Federation.

Mrs. Campbell gave an interesting report of what the different clubs are accomplishing and showed what an influence they have all through the State. She told of the compliment the Palmetto Club had received as Mrs. Graham Thompson's paper was considered one of the best and it was voted to have it printed in the Times-Union of Jacksonville.

The music was in charge of Mrs. Horace Stewart. Miss Grace F. DeCamp, accompanied by Miss Willaume, sang:

(A)—I Had My Love.

(B)—When Love Is Gone.

At the closing Miss DeCamp sang Beloved it is Morn.

SEABREEZE and DAYTONA BEACH, two enterprising and progressive towns on the Halifax Peninsula, are geographically one although incorporated as separate municipalities. The towns parallel the peninsula north and south for a distance of from three and one-half to four miles, and extend east and west from the surging seas of the Atlantic Ocean to the Halifax River, the beautiful tide water stream that sets them apart from Daytona with which they have close communication by means of three bridges as well as a half-hour ferry service.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach are essentially summer and winter resorts and are making hundreds of new friends every year among those who desire to escape the discomforting extremes of heat and cold, and their hotels and boarding houses are now receiving splendid patronage from the most discriminating class of tourists.

The ocean itself, with its marvelous beach, hard as macadam and smooth as a floor, is the greatest attraction, although earth, air and sky seem to have entered into a combination to enhance its every charm. The beach is the famous automobile race course where every world's straight-away record has been made, and all these records it continues to hold without rivalry.

The beach has a width of 300 to 500 feet and can be used from two hours after until two hours before high tide, thus giving an average of seven or eight hours for automobiling some part of each day.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach each have a permanent population of approximately 1500. Sanitary ordinances are strictly enforced, streets and sidewalks are well kept, and new streets are being opened as fast as the increasing population demands. Besides hotels and boarding houses there is ample cottage accomodation for all winter visitors in both towns.

All the attractiveness of Seabreeze applies to Daytona Beach, the two towns being so similarly situated. The development of Daytona Beach has been fully as phenomenal as its sister on the north, and each year there is a substantial growth. The great sand dunes have been leveled and handsome homes have been built for both winter and all-year-round occupancy.

NEWS FROM NEARBY TOWNS

Ormond Notes

ORMOND, Dec. 2—New arrivals this week are Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wetherbe, of Worcester, Mass., who will occupy their cottage on Lincoln avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tucker, who arrived in town two weeks ago, have taken one of the Miller cottages for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Barker, of Newport, R. I., are at their winter home on Palmetto avenue, having arrived Monday.

Capt. J. H. Wagstaff, who has been under the weather the past few days, is improving rapidly.

T. H. Sawyer took a party to Daytona Tuesday, just to do a little sight-seeing and to look over the handsome Christmas goods at the various stores.

Geo. Graham, of Boston, one of the national base ball experts, is playing ball on the bridge with a hook and line these fine days. He has landed some fine fish, and says he don't have to use any mask or mit either.

Frank Mason has finished putting on a coat of paint for G. A. Carleton, and is now going to do some painting for Mrs. Stimson on Camellia Lodge.

Potatoes in Scotland.

Carlyle once told a man who was financially interested in gold mining that all the gold ever produced by California was not worth one good mealy potato. And yet the potato in Scotland has a history of less than 200 years. When Macdonald of Clanranald in 1743 bought seed potatoes for his tenants in South Uist they objected to planting them because the potato is not mentioned in the Bible. Somewhat later George Barbour, one of the Ochiltree tenants, when told by his wife that she had potatoes for supper, contemptuously replied: "Tatties, tatties! I never supp'it on them a' my days and winna the nicht. Gie them to the herd and get me sowens." —Edinburgh Dispatch.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Dec. 2—The base ball game Thursday was a very good one.

Thanksgiving was generally observed by the people of Port Orange.

Mrs. Milburn gave a dinner on Thanksgiving day, entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Lyon and Mr. Lyon's uncle, Mr. Ridell, of Oregon.

Mr. Haller is making great improvements on the property that he purchased last summer.

Chas. S. Smith, one of our oldest citizens, is quite sick. We all hope he may soon be out again.

W. H. Johnson was in town Monday.

Mrs. Lyon entertained at a five o'clock tea Thanksgiving.

Joseph White and his son, Phillip, and wife and daughter, arrived last week from Ocean Grove, N. J., and are located for the winter in their beautiful home on Riverside avenue.

Some of the late arrivals are: Mr. and Mrs. Stockman, Mr. Hoyt, Mr. Clark and wife.

Miss Bradley, principal of the Oak Hill school, visited Miss May Milburn and Miss Caroline McDonald Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Fairbanks came down from Seabreeze and visited friends.

Water For Puss.

Water your cats. They suffer more for water than for food. Like babies, they are often pampered and stuffed, but seldom watered. In some of the foreign countries water is the great panacea for all ailments. Applied internally and externally, both hot and cold, it has the desired effect. Many people keep a house cat and three times a day place a saucer of milk where puss can get it. If a bowl of water is placed beneath the kitchen sink kitty will be duly grateful. Fresh water will allay the sufferings of your pet. Do not think that kitty wants food every time she cries. Just offer her water occasionally and listen for her contented pur of satisfaction a few minutes after.—Chicago Tribune.

HOLLY HILL

HOLLY HILL, Dec. 2—Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Corning, of Groton, N. H., arrived Wednesday to spend the winter at their charming bungalow.

A. V. Putnam came home again Sunday from the sanitarium. We are all pleased to see him once more in his accustomed place in the post-office.

Among our visitors this week were Mesdames Palmer, W. W. Wilder, Geo. H. Ludwig.

Our Sunday school will reopen tomorrow, with prospects of the usual good attendance.

There has been a continual mysterious disappearance of hens from the various roosts in the neighborhood, but Tuesday evening the culprit was located in Mr. Fuquay's chicken yard. He evidently came a little earlier than usual for his supper. He proved to be a very fine, fat specimen of the pole cat family. The load from a shot gun put an end to any further trouble as far as he is concerned.

Tales of Cities.

Vienna has fully 22,000 beggars, and their average income is more than that of most workingmen.

One of the cheapest cities in the world to live in is Lisbon, with its hilly sites and quaint streets. Palms grow in the public gardens and bananas in the center of the city.

There is a daily average of 850,000 passengers to and from Manhattan Island over and under the East river. Out of each hundred, sixty-six go by the bridges, twenty-two by the subway and twelve by the ferries.

Plausible Theory.

Greyhead—Scientists say that this earth was formed by volcanic action. Did you ever reflect that this very city was once in the grasp of earthquakes! Jacques—Earthquakes! Perhaps that's what created the ground rents.

Train the Schoolboys Into Being Protectors of the Country.

By J. E. GILMAN, Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

AS A PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE AMERICA SHOULD TRY THE COMPULSORY TRAINING OF SCHOOLBOYS IN RIFLE PRACTICE AND THE HANDLING OF ARMS AS A PREPARATION FOR DEFENSE OF THE NATION.

This country in time of war MUST DEPEND ON ITS CITIZENS. If the schoolboys before the civil war had been trained in rifle practice the consequences of that war would not have been so terrific.

Should the schoolboys of this generation be TRAINED IN THE HANDLING OF ARMS AND RIFLE PRACTICE the government of the future would be sure of an army ready and able to meet attack from without or revolt from within.

For these reasons I strongly hope that measures may be taken to compel the schoolboys of this generation and generations to come to be TRAINED IN RIFLE PRACTICE AND THE HANDLING OF ARMS.

The Fishman's Story

By HARRY VAN AMBERG

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I'm in fish myself, and once in awhile I find it necessary to the business to go where the fish I sell are caught.

One autumn I went to a village on the coast where most everybody was either a fisherman or belonged to a fisherman's family. I felt at home among them, for that was the way I started—fishing. Although it was late in the autumn, I used to go out with the men whenever the weather admitted their going themselves.

There was a pair of sweethearts, Jim Parker and Susie Dale. I used to like to watch them when they were together. They seemed to forget that there was any one else in the town. But that's the case with most lovers. One day I was down at the pier when Jim was bringing his boat to shore—he was a fisherman like the rest—with a load of fish. He was at the tiller when he caught sight of Susie standing on the pier, and it was refreshing to see the smile that lit up his manly face.

I turned for a glance at Susie, and she, too, wore a very happy expression. Then for the first time I noticed a young man standing near me looking at Jim. I never saw such a malignant expression on a man's face in my life.

DAYS AND NIGHTS OF PERIL; MEN BARELY ESCAPE DEATH.

JOSE LOPEZ ARRIVES IN ENGLAND WITH STORY OF LAST JOURNEY OF LIEUT. BOYD ALEXANDER.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A thrilling story of explorers' peril for days and nights on a volcano, with the earth opening in great fissures all around them, and rocks and trees hurling down the mountain side, is told by the sole companion of the late Lieut. Boyd Alexander, Jose Lopez, who has just arrived in this country from the Lake Chad district.

Lieutenant Alexander, it will be remembered, was murdered in the French Sudan early this year, and the story by Lopez is the first personal account of the explorer's last journey across Africa.

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 2—The Young Ladies' Pleasure Club entertained at heart dice and dancing at the Casino Friday evening in compliment to Miss Fay Stewart, who was taking her vacation from Stetson An elaborate supper was served. Eighteen guests were present and the evening was full of enjoyment for the participants.

The club rooms of the Pleasure Club, which have undergone a general renovation and brightened with feminine touches, are now in readiness for their meetings. Election of officers will take place at the next meeting.

The improvement on the Beardsley property on Valley street is progressing rapidly under Mr. Beardsley's personal direction. He is erecting two bungalows, the foundation for on of which is just laid, while the other has reached the inside finishing stage. These bungalows, while unlike in architecture will have the same number of rooms, five each—will be strictly modern and very attractive both without and within. The garage will be removed to the west of the lot and enlarged, and a driveway, sidewalk and inside concrete walks. Mr. Beardsley is just in receipt of an aermoter pumping engine for a complete water system for his four cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. James Keena, who spent the summer at Rockaway Beach and Asbury Park, are at their winter home on the Halifax for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Keena are looking forward to a visit from their two daughters, Mrs. Murry and her little son, and Mrs. Cherwood, who will arrive after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Gould of Lakeside, Ohio, who have a place of business on Seabreeze avenue, are expected this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stouffer are occupying the Wakefield beach cottage.

Mrs. Mable Wakefield and mother, Mrs. William Wakefield, arrived from Dunlap, Ill., last week and are located for the winter at their home on Peninsula drive.

Miss Marguerite Freeman entertained the Girls' Club and their boy friends at Pinehurst on Wednesday evening last week, complimentary to Miss Jeannette Ridgeway. A very delightful evening was passed by the company.

Misses Bosworth, Mitchell and their friend, Mrs. Gray will arrive from New York the latter part of the week to spend the winter here. Last winter Miss Bosworth and Miss Mitchell had rooms with Mrs. Foster on Peninsula drive.

The Tennis tournament, held on Thanksgiving, was enjoyed by a crowd of enthusiastic spectators. The three prizes offered were won as follows: Clarence Rose, first prize, a handsome watch fob; Earl Sims, second prize, a pair of cuff buttons; Cochran Keating, third prize, a scarf pin. The giver of the prizes kept in the background as much as possible. When at last the boys ferrited out that Miss Blakeslee, who is a great favorite with them, was the donor they gave three cheers and a tiger.

Miss Florilla Shoemaker arrived last Friday from Illinois, where she has been visiting her grand parents.

John Detweiler, who has spent a number of winters at Daytona Beach, arrived Friday afternoon to remain through the season. Mr. Detweiler is at the home of his uncle, C. L. Horn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gage were among last Friday's arrivals and are comfortably installed in their home on Seabreeze avenue. Mrs. Gage spent part of the summer in Chicago, while Mr. Gage enjoyed a visit with relatives in Virginia.

Mr. Finley, who came south to accompany his mother, Mrs. Collins, left Tuesday on his return to Sandwich, Ill. After spending a short time at the White House, Mrs. Rollins, who is a semi-invflid, removed to the Seaside Inn to be nearer the beach.

The Epworth League supper given last week was quite a success. All the cooked food was sold and the net receipts of the evening were $20.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, parents of Mrs. Kurfess, will arrive this week from Atlantic City, N. J., on a visit to their daughter and her family. Later they may go to Eustis if they do not succeed in disposing of their property there. They will be accompanied south by the Misses Mildred and Rona Smith, the latter of whom will assist Mr. and Mrs. Kurfess in their ice cream parlor.

W. C. Green and family, friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Willson, who arrived last week from New York, have taken and are now occupying Mrs. Stewart's cottage adjoining the Seaside Inn.

Mrs. J. B. VanValzah returned last week from Philadelphia and joined her husband and family on Valley street.

Mrs. Christie, who has many friends in Daytona Beach, in a recent letter says she will not return south this winter, as her health will not permit.

Roland Keating was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Keating Sunday, returning to Ocala Monday.

H. T. Coates accompanied J. R. King on an outing trip to the Inlet Sunday. The trip was made in one of Mr. King's launches.

The moving pictures will exhibit hereafter four evenings during the week, and Monday and Thursday evenings the hall will be opened for social dances.

There have been an abundance of blue fish caught from the ocean pier the last few days.

Capt. Ellenwood's splendid new wharf on the east side of the Halifax is being enjoyed as a recreation pier by many nature lovers.

Somewhere, hidden away among the display advertisements, in this issue of the Daily News will be found a coupon entitling some lucky person to two free tickets to the Crystal theater. Also among the local advertisements will be found another notice entitling some other person to two tickets to the same theater. The names of the two lucky persons appear in the two notices.

These four tickets are given away by the Daily News and the two persons named will be presented with two tickets each by calling at this office. They are entitled to be guests of this paper at the Crystal show tomorrow night. All that is necessary is for each of the persons named to call at the office of the Daily News, present a copy of the full advertisement containing the notice and be properly identified and the two tickets will be issued immediately.

This will be a feature of the Daily News each day during the season. Two new names will appear each day, one among the display advertisements and one among the locals, and the only effort required on the part of the persons to whom the tickets will be presented will be to hunt for the notices in the advertisements. The persons named must call at the Daily News office in person to receive the tickets.

Wondering what was the matter between them, I made inquiries and learned that the fellow was Jack Huggins, who had kept company with Susie before she became engaged to Jim. Indeed, Susie cast off from Huggins before she hooked on to Parker. Everybody said it was a good move for Susie, since Jack Huggins was a mighty poor stick. Indeed, it was said he'd had trouble with the law.

One day I was on the beach looking at the waves roll in and break on the beach. It was ugly outside—just the sort of day that a person would rather look at the waves from the shore than be rolling on them. Susie came down and looked out on the waters anxiously.

She didn't need to tell me that her lover was out there and she was worried about him. Presently a boat came rolling around a point about two miles out, and it was evident that something was the matter. There was nothing up but the jib, and the boat was low in the water. Every time she went into the trough of the sea it seemed as if she would never come up again.

I heard Susie give a cry of alarm, and, going to her, though I had no acquaintance with her, I asked her about the boat. She told me hurriedly through tears that it was Parker's boat, was an old hulk not calculated to stand such weather, and it was plain from the way it dragged that it was sinking.

Casting a glance at the pier, I saw a sloop rigged fishing smack anchored within the breakwater, and Jim Huggins was on her, doing some sort of fixing.

"I'll take that boat," I said to Susie, "and go out and help him."

"Not that one," she said. "You can't take that. Isn't there another?"

"Not one in sight."

I ran to the pier and got aboard the boat. Susie followed me. "Parker's out there in distress," I said. "We must go out and help him in."

I never saw a man do a thing more unwillingly in my life. Susie said she would go too. I tried to dissuade her on the ground that we might not get back ourselves. But she said that if Jim went down she wanted to go down too.

This was more than Jim's rival could stand. And yet what he felt at the start was nothing to what he felt as we were beating up against the wind, making for Parker's swamping boat. It seemed as if the tempest stirred up all the frightful deviltry there was in him. I saw it in his eye and was more afraid of his wrecking our purpose than of the storm.

But, anxious as I was about what he might do, I underrated what was in his mind. We were within a cable's length of the man we had come to succor, and, leaving the tiller with Huggins, I went forward to look out for meeting Parker's boat, which was mighty near sinking.

What did the villain do but try to upset us all. Giving the tiller a jerk to leeward, he turned the sheet broadside against the wind. I had an oar in my hand at the time with which to fend off, and, seeing the fiend's purpose, I made a few quick steps aft and hit him a crack over the head. The blow knocked him senseless, and the boat righted. But she was nearly half full of water. Before Huggins got his bearings again we had luffed up to the leeward of Parker's craft and he sprang aboard of us. The stunned man came to himself just in time to see Susie spring into her lover's arms.

But at the moment another matter diverted our attention. A big wave came, and our boat, being loaded with water, dragged in it fearfully. I surely thought we were going down. But she righted, and when we looked for Jim Parker's boat it was not to be seen.

Putting our boat before the wind, we succeeded in riding the waves and got her in behind the breakwater. Then, looking at Huggins, I said:

"You git before I brain you!"

And he did. That was the last that was ever seen of him in those parts.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE ON VOLCANO.

DAYS AND NIGHTS OF PERIL; MEN BARELY ESCAPE DEATH.

JOSE LOPEZ ARRIVES IN ENGLAND WITH STORY OF LAST JOURNEY OF LIEUT. BOYD ALEXANDER.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A thrilling story of explorers' peril for days and nights on a volcano, with the earth opening in great fissures all around them, and rocks and trees hurling down the mountain side, is told by the sole companion of the late Lieut. Boyd Alexander, Jose Lopez, who has just arrived in this country from the Lake Chad district.

Lieutenant Alexander, it will be remembered, was murdered in the French Sudan early this year, and the story by Lopez is the first personal account of the explorer's last journey across Africa.

It was when they had climbed 8,0000 feet up the celebrated Kamerun peak that Lieutenant Alexander had the rare experience of witnessing on the spot the great earthquake and eruption of the mountain, which lasted with continued severity for five days. There was sufficient warning for the natives and some Germen residents to escape to the coast, but the British traveller's curiosity tempted him to remain and gather th knowledge of a new experience.

How he and his party came alive out of the inferno was miraculous. For several days and nights the shocks were as frequent as every two minutes, and the mountains seemed to leap under him like a live thing. Beneath the earth the tremors rolled with a noise as loud as thunder and all through the first night and following day torrential rain poured down. The earth opened in huge fissures and scraps and ledges of rock broke away and tore down the mountain side, levelling the trees in front of them.

The forests and tall grass shook with a deafening, hissing sound, while the great stems snapped like matches, and out of the confusion thousands of monkeys fled screaming in terror down the slopes.

Then at last hte crater of the mountain burst open, belching up flame and throwing huge rocks, red hot into the sky, so high that they appeared to dwindle to the size of peas. These as they fell frequently met in collision, others ascending and broke with a noise like exploding shells, scattering far and wide hundreds of fragments that often fell within a few feet of the explorer and his men.

When the earthquake had subsided observations and photographs were taken of the crater and the lava stream before the party continued its advance to explore the Manenguba range. All the way great difficulties were experienced in getting food, for the story had gone abroad that the quake had been caused by the white man, who had gone up and fired his gun down the crater, thereby rousing to anger the devil, who, the natives believe, dwells within the mountain.

At the Ibi, on the River Benue, the carriers were paid off, and Lieutenant Alexander proceeded alone, without an escort through dangerous county by way of Yolar to Maifoni, while Jose Lopez went around by Kano in order to buy camels for the long desert journey across the continent. It was at Yola that Lieutenant Alexander fell ill with an attack of fever, which was so severe that, had it not been for the skill of the resident doctor, who as a last resource plunged his patient in cold water, there would have been no hop of his recovery.

The story of his murder at Tama has already been told, but it is not generally known that only a few weeks before the end, at a village called Yoa, to the southwest of Abeshr, he had given himself up for dying—this time from blackwater fever—but afterwards made a marvelous recovery, owing to Jose's resourcefulness in trying a powerful treatment as a last chance.

By some it is thought that the brave explorer never quite recovered from the illness, and that the fever and weakness induced an exalted state of mind, in which he was incapable of realizing the warnings of danger that came to him from all sides, and could only follow the one idea, that he must struggle forward and achieve the goal.

FINAL MEETING OF FRIDAY AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB.

PLEASANT SESSION OF THIS SUMMER ORGANIZATION HELD AT HOME OF MRS. GRAHAM THOMPSON.

The final meeting, for the season, of the Friday Afternoon Bridge Club was held at the home of Mrs. Graham Thompson yesterday afternoon and was an extremely pleasant social event. The various scores made at the meetings during the summer had been recorded and a souvenir was awarded to the three ladies having the highest number of games for the period. Favors were also distributed to all the members, these being placed upon the refreshment table with ribbons leading from them to each place.

The first souvenir for the highest score for the summer fell to Mrs. J. D. C. Morris. This was a hand-some blue fern dish. The second souvenir, a couple decks of playing cards, became the property of Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald, and the third souvenir, a beautiful Vantine perfume bottle, went to Mrs. E. T. Conrad.

The club, which has formed a pleasant entertainment for its members the past summer, will be reorganized again in the spring.

HON. GEORGE B. MUNROE RETURNS FROM ST. LOUIS.

BROUGHT HANDSOME CONVENTION BADGES FOR DELEGATES AND MAYOR GREENE.

Hon. George B. Munroe, who returned recently from attendance upon the convention of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Association at St. Louis, to which he was a delegate brought back with him as souvenirs of the occasion some handsome convention badges for his fellow delegates, Messrs. G. B. Beeman and T. E. Fitzgerald, who were unable to attend, and Mayor E. W. Greene, who took an active interest in the affairs of the association and the appointment of delegates to the St. Louis convention.

Mr. Munroe is an enthusiastic member of the Association and says the recent meeting was very encouraging for the work in view.

The convention took no action in the matter of the location of the World's Panama Exposition, although representatives of both New Orleans and San Francisco were active in their efforts for their respective cities.

WHEN THE PLAGUE RAGED.

Cat and Dog Laws in England in the Sixteenth Century.

Disease and the dog were believed to walk together in the sixteenth century. The terrier then was as much a suspect as the rat today. In plague times he had only to venture into the street to court death. Here is an order issued by the authorities at Winchester in 1583, which is typical of the rest: "That if any house within this cytie shall happen to be infected with the Plague, that there every persone to kepe within his or her house every his or her dogg and not to suffer them to goe at large. And if any dogge be then founde at large it shall be lawful for the Beadle of any other person to kill the same dogg and that any owner of such dogg going at large shall lose 6 shillings."

Among the records of King's Lynn, under May, 1585, appeared this: "For as moche as it hath pleased Allmightie God to begynn to send us his visitacion with sickness amongst us and that dogges and cattes are thought verie unfitt to be suffered in this tyme. Therefore, Mr. Maior, aldermen and common councell have ordered and decreed that every inhabitant within the same Town shall forthwith take all their dogges and puppes and hange them or kill them and carrye them to some out place and burye them for breadinge of a great inconvenience.

"And likewise for cattes, if there be any nigh unto any house or houses visited with sickness. It is ordered that the cattes shall forthwith be killed in all such places." An exception was made in favor of any "dogges of account." Such a one was allowed to be kept if "swadled or tied up or led in a leape."—Chicago News.

WHEN THE PLAGUE RAGED.

Cat and Dog Laws In England In the Sixteenth Century.

Disease and the dog were believed to walk together in the sixteenth century. The terrier then was as much a suspect as the rat today. In plague times he had only to venture into the street to court death. Here is an order issued by the authorities at Winchester in 1583, which is typical of the rest: "That if any house within this cytie shall happen to be infected with the Plague, that thene every persone to keepe within his or her house every his or her dogg and not to suffer them to goo at large. And if any dogge be then founde at large it shall be lawful for the Beadle or any other person to kill the same dogg and that any owner of such dogg going at large shall lose 6 shillings."

Among the records of King's Lynn, under May, 1585, appeared this: "For as muche as it hath pleased Allmightie God to begynn to send us his visitacion with sickness amongst us and that dogges and cattes are thought verie unfitt to be suffered in this tyme. Therefore, Mr. Maior, aldermen and common councell have ordered and decreed that every inhabitant within the same Town shall forthwith take all their dogges and yappes and hange them or kill them and carrye them to some out place and burye them for breadinge of a great annoyance.

"And likewise for cattes, if there be any nigh unto any house or houses visited with sickness. It is ordered that the cattes shall furthwith be killed in all such places." An exception was made in favor of any "dogge of accompte." Such a one was allowed to be kept if "kenelled or tied up or led in a lease."—Chicago News.

DUTY.

Let us do our duty in our shop or our kitchen, the market, the street, the office, the school, the home, just as faithfully as if we stood in the front rank of some great battle and we knew that victory for mankind depended on our bravery, strength and skill. When we do that the healthier of us will be serving in that great army which achieves the welfare of the world. —Theodore Parker.

Wanted Particulars.

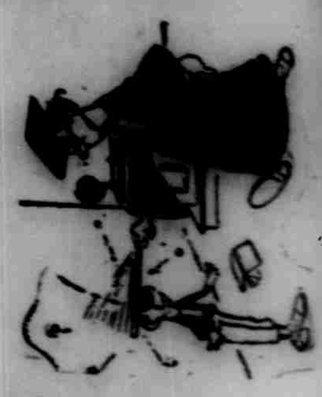

Motorton Senior—You kept the car out rather late last evening, son. What delayed you? Motorton Junior—Had a blowout, dad. Motorton Senior—What! Tire or roadhouse?—Puck.

Shed Your Light.

Talents are not wasted in a narrow sphere. Your lamp could add but little to the great glow that illumines the world, but it may fill with light a home that without it would be in darkness.

Be not hurried away by excitement, but say, "Semblance, let me see what you are and what you represent."—Epictetus.
